

As the rules change in Ohio's current mortgage climate, foreclosure is no longer a simple procedural matter left to run-of-the-mill specialists.

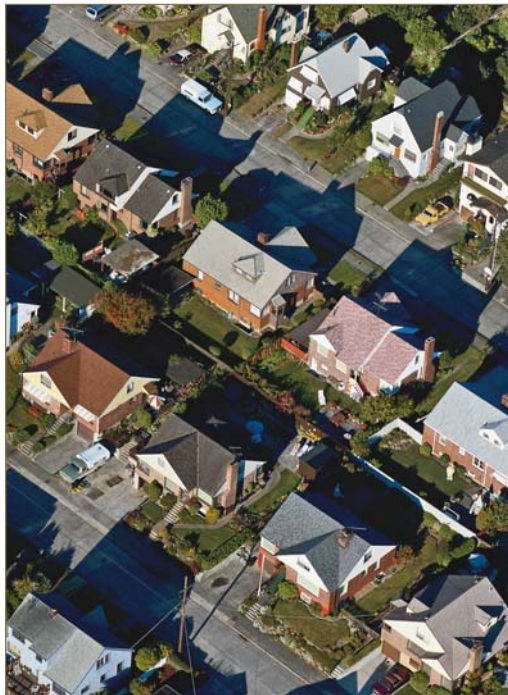

Truly effective foreclosure representation requires a law firm with a wide variety of strengths. A legal team with the expertise to handle litigation, the finesse to facilitate mediation, and the local knowledge and clout to be heard in every corner of the statehouse.

In Ohio, one of the epicenters for today's foreclosure crisis, one firm stands ready to represent creditors with a perfect blend of service and experience.

That firm is Wiles, Boyle, Burkholder & Bringardner.

Improved technology to serve you better

The firm has expanded and improved its facility, technology and personnel to handle your changing needs. Members of our Creditor Representation Team are always reachable via phone and also communicate through VendorScape, customer web sites/software and e-mail. Monthly status reports are tailored to meet your specific requirements.

Seamless solutions for changing needs

As your needs change because of sudden regulation changes or litigation matters, the process is streamlined as you move from practice area to practice area. When strategies need to shift, we hit the ground running.

Experienced, strong litigation team

Our solution-based focus on early evaluation and risk assessment gives us the insight to mediate favorable settlements if matters are litigated. We offer you responsive attorneys who are known and respected for their integrity, tenacity and success in courtrooms and boardrooms throughout Ohio.

Influential Ohio-based firm

Our affiliate, Ohio Public Sector Consulting, has built a solid reputation in the Ohio lobbying community. OPSC assures that the interests of creditors are listened to in virtually every branch and regulatory entity of Ohio government.
