ATTORNEYS AT LAW

In an ever-growing billion dollar industry, transportation companies and their insurers are faced with increasing regulatory and legal demands. Wiles, Boyle, Burkholder & Bringardner's Motor Carrier Practice Group has been helping its clients navigate these "legal roads" for more than twenty years.

The firm's Motor Carrier Practice Group includes a team of highly skilled attorneys, each providing specific expertise in this multi-faceted area of practice. The group has extensive experience in the defense of motor carriers, drivers and insurers. Firm members are experienced in handling on-scene investigations and handling serious injury and wrongful death cases to completion.

Trial Experience

Our attorneys have built a track record of successfully and economically defending trucking and motor carrier related cases. The group handles cases ranging from the routine to the catastrophic and is skilled in the various phases of discovery and effective trial techniques. The firm maintains a network of independent DOT and medical experts, accident reconstructionists and others to assist in the investigation of serious losses.

Prevention

Our attorneys work with clients in order to prevent accidents or violations from occurring. Attorneys can assist on issues including DOT audits, hours of service, accident prevention, driver training and education, background checks for drivers and other operational matters.

Specific Industry Knowledge

Wiles Boyle's attorneys are actively involved in trucking and transportation organizations within the legal, trucking and transportation industries.

The Practice Group members belong to and participate in various associations including the Trucking Industry Defense Association (TIDA), Transportation Lawyers Association and Defense Research Institute Trucking Law Committee.

Affiliation with these organizations allows our attorneys to remain current on trends and issues within the trucking and transportation industry.
